

REED IS NOMINATED FOR SUPREME COURT

EGG PRODUCERS OF 6 COUNTIES TO MEET HERE

Sessions To Be Held Feb. 1 and 2 at Memorial Building

COOKING SCHOOL IS ON PROGRAM

County's Annual Poultry, Egg Output Valued at Million Dollars

Aimed at the goal of improving the quality of eggs sold to the city housewife and better acquainting her with the food value of eggs, an "egg institute," sponsored by poultrymen, consumers and distributors of the area will be held Feb. 1 and 2 at Memorial building.

In addition to a cooking school for the public, there will be sessions during the two days and evenings for producers of eggs. This part of the program is expected to bring 800 to 1,000 poultrymen from all parts of Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, Portage, Stark and Carroll counties to Salem, for the discussion sessions the first day, and the poultry banquet the evening of February 2.

Committee Organized

The committee making arrangements for the event is composed of Henry Hurlburt, chairman; Mrs. R. C. Gibbs, Lawrence Beardmore, Eldon Groves, W. L. Hart, Emerson Smith, Whinnery Lease, James Hayden, W. L. Fultz and F. J. Wise.

County agents of the six counties, with local committees of poultrymen, are making plans for the "rural" part of the meeting.

Poultrymen of this section have reason for boosting their business, according to County Agent Floyd C. Lewis. Only one other county in the state has a larger number of poultrymen, and the poultry business is a close contender with the potato, for second place.

Lower has figured that poultrymen of Columbiana county produce almost a million dollars worth of poultry and eggs a year. Columbiana leads this group of six counties in poultry activities, with Portage and Stark close behind.

The program of the first evening, Tuesday, Feb. 1, is planned for the benefit of grocers and restaurant men. On the program are such subjects as "Care of the Eggs After Leaving the Farm," "Merchandising Eggs," and others. There will also be a demonstration of candling and grading eggs on this program.

Cooking School Second Day

On the second day, hatcherymen will meet in the morning, and in the afternoon there will be a "cooking school," under direction of Miss Alma Garvin of Ohio State university. This program includes an illustrated talk, "What Is An Egg?" by C. M. Ferguson, also an Ohio State university specialist.

The two-day institute is climaxed by a poultryman's banquet to be given Wednesday evening, Feb. 2. There will be several entertainment features on the program, with a speaker, Sidney Edwards, from Cincinnati. Edwards is to be head of the World's Poultry Congress scheduled for Cleveland in 1939.

BAPTISTS HEAR THREE SPEAKERS

More Than 100 Attend Rally of Four Church Groups Here

Talks by three leaders of the Northern Baptist convention featured the gathering of four district Baptist churches Friday night in the Salem church. Approximately 100 persons attended.

Churches represented included, besides Salem, the East Liverpool, Alliance and Locust Grove organizations. Rev. S. T. Magann acted as chairman.

Dr. Coe Hayne of New York, the first to speak following the dinner at 6:30, singled out a number of Ohioans who took the lead in pioneer missionary work among the American Indians.

George Hunt, an Indian and representative of the Oklahoma Indians at Rainy Mountain Baptist church, Mountain View, Okla., expressed the keen sense of appreciation of the Indians as a whole for having the Gospel preached to them.

"Deacon" Hunt, as he is called, introduced one of the first hymns ever written by the Indians. Entitled "Gotohe," and written by Marietta J. Reeside, it is an expression of the Indian's faith in God.

Dr. Paul Judson Morris, director of the Ohio Baptist board of promotion, discussed in his address "The Church in Our Modern World."

Pointing to three predominant philosophies in the world today—Nationalism, Communism and Christianity, Dr. Morris explained that Christianity, and Christianity alone, supplies the full needs of life.

He urged the churches to take the lead in creating men of strong character, who, ultimately, will make this world a place of true Christianity and not one of anti-movements.

FARMERS BANK HEADS RENAMED

Officers Are Re-elected By Directors Following Annual Meeting of Stockholders

Officers of the Farmers' National bank were re-elected by the directors of the institution at a meeting Friday afternoon.

B. L. Flick was renamed president, while other officers include: Vice presidents, H. M. Silver and G. R. Deming; cashier, W. L. Hart; assistant cashiers, L. B. Vincent and R. T. Speidel.

Face Grand Jury On Auto Charges

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Mayor G. Cecil Rauch today bound Lawrence and Charles Soles over to the Columbiana county grand jury on charges of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. Bond was set at $1,000 apiece.

The brothers are charged with stealing a car, belonging to John Everett, from its parking place on N. Market st. last Wednesday. They were arrested in Crestline Thursday after driving away from a gasoline station without paying for gas they had ordered.

Both entered pleas of guilty to the theft charge, but Mayor Rauch was forced to bind them over to the grand jury because he does not have jurisdiction in such a case.

NORRIS PLANS MOVE TO CARRY OUT F.D.R. IDEA

Suggests Tax Burden To Eliminate Holding Companies

WALL STREETERS FRANKLY AMAZED

Other Legislators Voice Opposition To President's Plan

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) suggested today that the government use its taxing powers to carry out President Roosevelt's proposed abolition of all holding companies.

Norris, expressing enthusiastic agreement with the President's views, asserted a taxing system could be set up which promptly would eliminate all holding companies.

"Simple To Impose Tax"

"It would be simple to impose such a heavy tax burden that it would be impossible for them to operate," he said.

The Nebraska added it might be desirable to permit some types of holding companies, but that certainly the higher holding companies (holding companies controlling holding companies) should be eliminated.

Some other legislators expressed opposition to the President's proposal. Most sought time to analyze it before commenting.

Senator Copeland (D.-N. Y.) a physician, said "if any operations are necessary on the national economy, they should wait until the patient is stronger."

Efforts now, he said should be concentrated on building prosperity.

The President's expression on holding companies, made at his press conference yesterday, brought wide-eyed surprise to the New York financial community.

Wall Streeters voiced frank amazement. They pointed out that more than half of the companies whose securities are widely distributed fall into the holding company category. Some said surely the President had in mind reservations which had not been made clear.

In brief, Mr. Roosevelt told re-

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. R. F. MAYER

Wife of Former Salem Pastor Succumbs In Cleveland

Mrs. Lila Arnold Mayer, wife of Rev. R. F. Mayer of Chardon, former pastor at the Methodist church here, died in St. Luke's hospital, Cleveland, yesterday afternoon of a heart ailment.

Mrs. Mayer lived in Salem during her husband's pastorate here from 1915 to 1919. She was active in the women's work and organizations of the church. During the pastorate of her son, Rev. Sidney A. Mayer, here from 1929 to 1934, she visited in the city many times.

Mrs. Mayer formerly taught school at Berea, attended Baldwin-Wallace college and was prominent in foreign missionary society work. She had lived in Port Clinton, Clyde, Cuyahoga Falls, Orrville, Mount Vernon, Steubenville and Cambridge, while her husband was pastor in those cities.

She leaves, in addition to her husband; three sons, Rev. Sidney A. Mayer of Cuyahoga Falls, Rev. Theodore Mayer of Rocky River and Philip Mayer, teacher in Steubenville; one daughter, Miss Doris Mayer, social worker in Steubenville; and a sister, Mrs. Frank Dorland of Berea.

Funeral service will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Monday in the Chardon M. E. church. Dr. R. H. Walker of Ohio Wesleyan university will be in charge of the service. Burial will be in Berea.

Friends may call at the Smith funeral home in Chardon anytime.

Nurse Is Killed

DAYTON, Jan. 15.—Funeral services were arranged today for Pauline Purkypile, 20, who died in a railroad crossing accident last night as she was being driven to Miami Valley hospital to receive her white cap in recognition of completion of her first year as a student nurse.

Charles B. Hoskland, 21, who was driving her there, also was killed, and Marjorie Hancock, 15, a high school student riding with them, was injured seriously.

GRAND JURORS EXTEND PROBE

Nine Additional Witnesses To Be Quizzed Monday

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Grand jurors adjourned for the week-end Friday afternoon, concluding a week's work involving testimony of 68 witnesses.

Nine additional witnesses have been subpoenaed for Monday, according to Assistant Prosecutor Louis Tobin. The jury is expected to complete its work Monday afternoon following an inspection of the county jail.

At least 20 cases have been reviewed by the body since it started deliberations Jan. 10. These include 17 charges for which transcripts have been filed, as well as a few continued by the September grand jury.

Information regarding the gambling probe ordered by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones will not be divulged before the indictments have been returned, Prosecutor Karl Stouffer stated Friday.

MRS. FORSYTHE SUCCUMBS HERE

Widow of Peter B. Forsythe, 91, Dies at Home; Funeral Service To Be Held Monday

Mrs. Mary Madera Forsythe, 91, widow of Peter P. Forsythe, died at her home, 459 Washington ave., at 9:30 p. m. Friday after four years illness.

The oldest of 11 children, she was the daughter of Hugh and Jane Madera and was born Nov. 17, 1846, at Morgantown, W. Va.

She was married on April 20, 1875, and shortly afterward came to Salem to make her home. She had lived here since that time. Her husband died 18 years ago. She was the last member of her immediate family. Mrs. Forsythe was a member of the Methodist church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Thomas G. Reese, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Grace Dyalb of Salem; one son, H. C. Forsythe of Cleveland; three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral service will be conducted by Rev. R. D. Walter at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the home on Washington ave. Burial will be in Hope cemetery. Rev. Walter will have charge in the absence of Rev. H. J. Thompson of the Methodist church, who will be out of town.

The friends may call from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday at the home.

LISBON, Jan. 15.—County Engineer Robert S. Wheatley was notified today that he has been named a trustee of the Ohio Good Roads federation.

SOLONS ADOPT APPROPRIATION BILL FOR YEAR

Total of $267,149 Is Provided In Annual Legislation

INCREASES SEEN IN TWO FUNDS

Bond Retirement, Wages Account For Boost Of $22,807

An appropriation measure calling for slightly more than last year's was approved by members of city council at a special meeting held Friday night at city hall.

The legislation, based on estimates received from County Auditor John H. Irwin, carries a $267,149.45 total, and is $22,807.45 above the $244,342 appropriation ordinance adopted at the beginning of 1937.

Two Funds Increased

The increase in probable 1938 expenditures is in the general bond retirement fund and the police and fire department funds. City Auditor Karl Webster explained.

A total of $22,807.45 has been "ear-marked" for general bond retirement, approximately $8,000 more than that set aside a year ago. The balance of the increase in the appropriation total is due to the wage boosts given the police and firemen last May approximating 10 per cent. This increase had not been provided for in the 1937 appropriation measure.

Ordinarily the councilmen pass a three-month budget, and then follow through with a nine-month appropriation bill March 1. Last night's appropriation measure was for the entire year.

A recapitulation of the bill shows a general fund total of $9,707.50; safety fund, $41,321; health fund, $5,060; service fund, $42,285; water works, $55,540; gasoline tax street repair fund, $17,000; general bond retirement fund, $62,736.61; and special assessment bond retirement fund, $33,249.34.

The extra money in the general bond retirement fund will take care of refunding bonds now falling due, Auditor Webster explained.

A classification of the various departments shows:

General fund: Council, $1,022.50; clerk of council, $425; mayor, $2,650; auditor, $2,250; treasurer, $560; so-

BETTER COUNTY CROPS REPORTED

U. S. Rehabilitation Payments, As Result, Are Increased

Better crops last year in Columbiana county were listed by Carson Myers, of Lisbon, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration. United States department of agriculture, as one of the main causes for increased rehabilitation repayments in the county.

He said that a total of $3,242.00 in payments have been made since July 1, 1937, as compared with $2,016.74 during the same period of 1936. These repayments have been made by the 365 farmers in the county who now have loans under the rehabilitation program of the Farm Security Administration.

$12,493 Paid

Altogether, $12,493.60 has been repaid on rehabilitation loans in the county.

"A farmer is eligible for a rehabilitation loan only when he is unable to obtain credit from other government or recognized private lending agencies," Myers said.

"While chattel mortgages are taken as security, many of these borrowers, since emerging from the recent depression, have little to offer as a material security. Rehabilitation loans actually are 'character loans'."

Myers explained that rehabilitation loans are made for a maximum of five years with interest at 5 per cent a year. Repayments may be made in annual, semi-annual, quarterly or monthly payments.

Ohioans Ordered Into Traffic Court

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 15.—Fifty seven motorists, including many from outside Pennsylvania, were ordered today to appear in the special "speeders' courts" set up by a decree from Governor George H. Earle to show why their licenses should not be revoked for 90 days.

Each one was charged with exceeding Pennsylvania's 50-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Silver Re-elected To Board of Health

H. M. Silver was re-elected as a member of the board of health for five years at a meeting of the board Friday night.

Other members are R. K. Yates, Harry Lenzner, Dr. J. M. McGeorge, J. M. Campbell and Mayor George R. Harroff, president.

The board members retained Dr. R. T. Holzbach as health commissioner, William Roach as sanitary officer and Miss Frances Markovich as health nurse.

Lieut. Thomas Williamson, commander of the U. S. S. Avocet, seen plane tender stationed at Samoa, is pictured above. He located the wreckage of the Pan American Samoan Clipper, luxury airliner which was destroyed by fire 14 miles off Pago Pago, and in which seven lost their lives.

STOCK REDUCTION IS BRIGHT SPOT

Curtailed Inventories seen As Promising By Economist

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist and vice president of the Cleveland Trust Co., pointed today in the bank's monthly report to the reduction of over-large inventories as the bright spot of the new year's business situation.

Obstacle to Resumption

"The existence of over-large inventories of materials and finished goods in the warehouses of factories and dealers throughout the country is probably the most serious obstacle to a prompt resumption of business recovery," Ayres declared.

"Purchasing agents for important corporations agree they bought too freely in the early months of last year, and made over-heavy commitments too far ahead, resulting in the piling up of inventories that appeared to be none too large as long as business was active and prices were advancing, but which were distressingly heavy when conditions changed."

The probable primary cause of their heavy buying, Ayres said, was the series of rapid advances in wage rates which took place in 1936 and the first half of 1937. As wages and prices rose and demand remained active, he added, business men built up inventories and overdid it.

Physical Volume Drops

"The year-end physical volume of industrial production dropped to nearly 34 per cent below the normal December level, most of the severe shrinkage being in the durable goods industries," Ayres continued.

"Employment decreased rapidly, and many workers still on payrolls are only working part time. 'When the stock market broke last summer and business activity slowed down, many corporations found themselves holding such large stocks of goods and materials that they could curtail or suspend production and still fill orders.'"

"The fact that those stocks are now being worked down constitutes the most hopeful aspect of the present business situation."

20 New Notaries To Be Appointed

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Twenty new notaries public will be appointed in Columbiana county following an examination conducted Friday in the court house.

Only four failures were reported by Examiners Francis Lang of East Liverpool and W. Edmund Peters, Salem. Ten received grades between 70 and 80 and ten more, because of their higher standing, will not be required to take additional examinations when their three-year appointments expire.

A class of 24 took the written quiz which involved statutory requirements of the posts.

Sheriff's Sleuths Report No Gambling

LISBON, Jan. 5.—Sheriff Harry L. Gooney disclosed today that he has 10 special investigators scattered throughout the county working in connection with the court's drive on gambling and rackets.

So far, the sheriff says, the sleuths report no evidence of gambling in the county. The investigators previously were unemployed men. They were first put to work Thursday.

NEW DEAL LAWYER IS NAMED

Will Succeed Associate Justice Sutherland

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—President Roosevelt today nominated Solicitor General Stanley Reed to be an associate justice of the supreme court.

Reed will succeed Associate Justice George Sutherland, whose retirement from the high tribunal is effective January 18.

The nomination is the second Mr. Roosevelt has made in his two terms.

Last fall he selected the then Alabama Democratic Senator Hugo L. Black to succeed Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter.

Another Vacancy Looms

There is some expectation that soon he may have to fill another seat on the court since it is believed that the serious illness of Justice Benjamin Cardozo may necessitate his resignation.

Reed long has been discussed as a possible appointee to the supreme court. His name was mentioned often in speculation over Van Devanter's successor.

Word that the nomination would be made today spread through the capitol a few minutes before it was presented to the senate by Maurice C. Latta, White House executive clerk.

On the senate floor, where copies of the nomination were quickly passed among senators by pages, knots of excited conversationalists formed speedily.

Reed was born at Maysville, Ky., Dec. 31, 1884, and practiced law there after studying in Kentucky, New York college, Yale, the University of Virginia, Columbia, and Sorbonne in Paris.

As solicitor general he has carried the burden of arguing many of the New Deal's biggest cases before the supreme court during the Roosevelt administration.

Favorable Impression

He is known to have made a highly favorable impression among lawyers and even his opponents frequently have congratulated him on his arguments before the tribunal.

Heavy set and bald, Reed is an eloquent speaker. He is never at a loss for words and expresses himself in a forceful manner.

Immediate reaction to his nomination by the few senators whose views could be judged by their facial expression was apparently favorable.

It was indicated in informed senate quarters that the judiciary committee would consider Reed's nomination promptly. In the past, members have expressed varying views as to whether hearings should be held.

Indexing System For Relief Planned

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Arrangements for the installation of a central indexing system were agreed upon at a meeting of 75 officials, interested in relief, held in the court house Friday.

The index is expected to prevent duplication of relief and will be used as a reference by all county agencies—public and private. All case histories and other data concerning the clients will be kept on file at the agency handling the case originally. The index will be used to direct inquiries to the proper source.

A special committee consisting of representatives of townships, municipalities, Red Cross and Salvation Army will be organized soon to complete plans. Known as the Advisory committee, it will meet Feb. 1 for further organization.

Miss Ruth E. Brown of Dayton, an official of the Dayton Community Chest, explained the plan to the group attending the meeting. Miss Brown is on a leave of absence and at present is working for the state setting up the index in Ohio counties.

P. I. Stiffler, district supervisor of the aid for dependent children department and T. H. Davis, representing the state division of public assistance also attended.

Machines Emptied

STREUBENVILLE, Jan. 15.—Slot machines and pin board money makers were empty at night clubs and shops here today in the wake of a county grand jury gambling investigation which resulted in the return of 113 indictments. Police said he heard that "muscle men" looted the machines yesterday, but Police Chief Ross Cunningham asserted he received no official complaints.

FORGETTING TO REMEMBER

As every investigator knows, an admission by a witness that he doesn't remember something he wouldn't be likely to forget is next best to eliciting the awful truth. Many a prober in Washington has used a witness's strangely lax memory to drive home the point of an investigation.

In the investigating being done in Columbus, the public will be touched about every failure to remember a pertinent fact. The witnesses in this case are testifying about things related closely to the welfare of Ohio. What they remember and what they don't remember happen to be the people's business.

The public's automatic response to each and every "I don't remember" is: "That seems to prove it must have been worth forgetting."

MUST BE QUITE A MAN

Richard N. Elliott, holding the title of acting comptroller-general of the United States, must be quite a man.

The supposition is based wholly on the fact he is the subject of a 15 page letter of protest by an administrative official, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

Mr. Morgenthau says Mr. Elliott took newspaper references to himself as "watchdog of the treasury" so seriously he started to hamper administrative officials by "snapping at their heels."

In the belief that this is the only instance of anyone in Washington "snapping at the heels" of spending officials since J. R. McCarl rounded out a 15 year term as comptroller-general in a cloud of brickbats in 1936, Mr. Elliott is proposed for a snappy cheer. It had begun to look as though heel snapping might be a forgotten, as well as a declining, art in Washington.

TOO QUICK ON THE TRIGGER

Standard procedure following outrages incidental to strikes is for strikers to charge that the employer's agents are to blame.

This has taken place following acid throwing in St. Louis, where the climax of a series of outrages which have damaged Ford Motor Co. products was reached when an owner, as well as his new car, was showered with acid.

Declaring the "average citizen would come to the hasty conclusion that the victims of acid pouring were also the victims of the union," the executive board of United Automobile Workers said the union was opposed to violence and believed the acid outrages were inspired by the company to throw suspicion on union members.

The hasty concluding being done on the labor front would seem to be the union's. By accepting the fact of suspicion before it is made a matter of record, union spokesmen are denying the common sense in an American saying that the one who cries out first is pinched hardest.

UNQUENCHABLE FAITH

Unquenchable faith in man's ability to conquer the problems posed by his ambition to fly has survived many setbacks.

It will survive the disaster of the Samoan Clipper, though it would be foolish to deny that this accident like all others which reveal the potential danger of flight is a hard blow to confidence.

Due to the fact the Samoan Clipper was on a pioneering flight, in the hands of men who had brilliant achievements in Pacific flight to their credit, thought turns to the importance of the human element in aviation.

Without men like Capt. Edwin C. Musick, who was in charge of the ship, there could be no faith in the ultimate success of such ambitious projects as flight over the vast expanses of the Pacific. Thus, it is the effect of disaster on other aviators, rather than the effect on the general public, that is most important as the story of the crash of the Samoan Clipper is pieced together.

Significantly, there is little doubt that aviators, themselves, will not be discouraged. To them, flying is a challenge, seemingly renewed with great disappointment. They have built their triumphs on disappointments in the past. They will do so again.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, January 16

Sunday's horoscope is an excellent one for affairs of church and clergy, and for study, elders and old institutions. It is a fine time for seeking promotion or favors, honors or signs of preferment from superiors and those in authority. Refrain from strife and temperamental exhibitions.

Those whose birthday it is find themselves with splendid prospects for promotion, honors, preferment and substantial tokens of approval and favoritism from employers, superiors and those in influential positions. Seek these, but with restraints on tongue and temper.

A child born on this day may be impulsive and hasty, but should have sound judgment, common sense and solid ambitions which should secure it high position and the indorsement of its superiors and fellow workers.

For Monday, January 17

Monday's astrological forecast is a rather conflicting one. There is promise of fortunate transactions with rings, political, diplomatic or fraternal organizations, or by means of subtle alliances. But there are signs of sudden upsets and disturbance, probably brought about by vexatious, tricky or caustic speech or writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of complications or contradictions, with some gain possible through dealing secretly or with secret organizations, whereas open, vexatious and overclever speech and writings may prove detrimental.

A child born on this day may have a rather difficult nature to understand, being subtle, crafty and shrewd and, at the same time, open, quick and sharp of speech, critical and lacking in "policy".

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Because my mother went to Heaven before I have any memory of her, my maternal affections were centered on my lavender and old lace grandmother, who reared me. Today there are no grandmas who even remotely suggest the type.

Modern grandmas are likely to be flinging a rum-ba with a hot cha cha at one of the jerms. My grandmother was American born Scotch and Grandpa was an emigre from Scotland, a dour, kindly man with penetrating eyes and a lowland burr. Grandma had a lovely name. It was Joan.

For a long time the companionships of boys and girls did not interest me. I was content to play by myself in the backyard until time for the afternoon nap, when Grandma would read from Grimm's fairy tales while rocking in the company chair, the one with the crocheted tidi.

In the evening, my face scrubbed and shining, we would take our pillows and sit on the front stoop until Gen. George House passed on way home, certain sign it was precisely nine o'clock. I always looked forward to helping grandma close the shutters.

During my early boyhood I played mostly with girls. There were no boys on our block. A diversification was the pin show Mary Henking, the girl next door, and I gave. The stage would be portioned off with a sliding bed sheet curtain on a stretched wire in the Henking living room. Our audience consisted solely of Mr. Henking, the town's sedate banker, who would look up now and then from his evening paper to beam his approval, not having the slightest notion what it was all about. In fact, we made up the shows as we went along. Then there were hot summer days when we played store at the edge of the sidewalk, hawking a mildewed version of what was supposed to be lemonade. Hour after hour we sat patiently with a paper tasseled shoo-fly awaiting trade, but the only customer was again the old reliable Gen. George House, who would gallantly plunk down his nickel and courageously down the awful stuff. One felt the General might actually die at dawn!

Mary, a pretty girl with pulled taffy braids, began to have beaux and our industrial experiments languished. In the meantime my voice was changing and I was growing decidedly tough. I chewed tobacco, smoked corn cob pipes and alarmed mothers warned little Rollos to "keep away from that dreadful McIntyre boy." Grandma would chide me but was not upset by my derelictions. Outside of my wife, she was the firmest believer in my ultimate destiny.
One of her treasured letters when I was, after two years away, floundering hopelessly around, said:
"Some day you will live in New York with your own horse and buggy and go to hear another Jenny Lind sing."

I first noted grandma's feebleness when her agemottled hands shook in reading the paper. Then I went away to business school in Cincinnati and, it developed, left the town for good. For the first year there were several trips back and I became something of a journalistic wanderer. Each return marked Grandma's further decline.

She had reached her 80's, stooped, shrunken, and a dull glaze to her eyes. On the last visit she did not know me, but called me "Georgie," the name of her youngest son. The day I left, never to see her again in this world, she sat at a window as the depot hack called. From it I waved as Tom Holmes clucked to his team. Her returning wave was mechanical, without emotion. For her I was lost through the mental fog that enveloped her. "She's been one of the town's finest women," said Tom Holmes, and meant it. I know that my last view of her was a wrench I can never erase. As I have often said, it was the nearest my heart ever came to breaking.

Get Half of Lindbergh Reward

Walter Lyle

Half of the $25,000 reward offered by the state of New Jersey in the Lindbergh kidnaping was shared by Walter Lyle, gasoline station attendant and Willie Allen, Negro laborer. Lyle, who received $7,500, was the attendant who took the $10 gold ransom note at his station in the Bronx, New York, and Allen, who got $5,000, was the Sourland mountain character who wandered into the woods and accidentally found the body identified as that of the Lindbergh baby.
It was the fact that Lyle jotted down the license number of the car driven by the man who gave him the note that led to capture of Bruno Richard Hauptmann who was executed for the crime.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

SMALLPOX
I AM writing the article in championing Florida where we are enjoying a brief vacation. Could I confess upon all

Dr. Copeland

of special grant of health, there would be a cold weather vaccine for every citizen of the snow and ice country. In Florida or California or some southern state between them, there they could get great doses of sunshine with its healing rays.

But even in this glorious country we hear about unpleasant things. In one of the papers I just read this:

"Although there has not been a case of smallpox in Florida for years and none in Tampa for more than a decade, City Health Officer McEachern issued a warning yesterday that the disease is riding southward . . . and said he already has started to vaccinate Tampa's 20,000 school children . . . We have not had smallpox in Tampa since 1926. As a result few children born since then have been vaccinated, and many vaccinated during the 1926 epidemic are no longer immune. This is generally true throughout the state."

Other States, Too
Yes, Doctor, and unfortunately it is generally true throughout all the states and in Canada, too. Your advice is sensible, indeed. I pray your campaign may result in universal vaccination in Tampa. I pray your example may be followed by health officials and private physicians everywhere. There is not one whit more danger in Tampa, or Florida, than in another city, state or province. But there is a sure way to be safe and that is to vaccinate.

I am reading Kenneth Roberts' great historical novel, "Rabbits in Arms". Describing the trials and tribulations of the soldiers in the Revolutionary war, he painted a vivid picture of how terribly and universally they suffered from smallpox. He spoke of it as "A cruel disease, threatening its victim not only with death, but with disability, blindness, pain, disfigurement and social ostracism."

Protection Urged
It is all that, but worse than the disease is the stupidity of neglecting the means of protecting against it. Society grows careless when there are no local cases and no official warnings. But against disease and death we must stand constant guard. It is better to be safe than sorry.

The other day my young daughter-in-law dropped in to say:

UNCLE ABNER SAYS:

No matter what the politicians aim at, it's the taxpayers they generally hit.
Snoot Gluckins' winter bathin' was due to an accident. Th' ice on Snake Creek let him down.

"Your granddaughter, aged eight months, was vaccinated today."
"Fine," was my reply, "but why did you wait so long?"

Generally speaking, the infant should be vaccinated at five or six months. The rest of us should be revaccinated every six or seven years. It may not "take", but safety lies in this simple and harmless procedure.

Services In Our Churches

English Lutheran Sermon Topic and Services Listed

"A Challenging Invitation" is the subject of the sermon which will be preached by Rev. George Kelsner at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the second Sunday after Epiphany.

Complete services for the church and announcements will be the week as follows:

Sunday school 9:45—(Mark 1: 14-28) Charles W. Youtz, Supt.

No one can begin too early in life to be of service to God and man. There are small tasks that children can do and thus acquire the habit of usefulness. There is some cost to a life of service. Some are not ready and willing to face this sacrifice. Unselfishness must be pushed aside. The personal profit and benefit must go in the background. There must be the surrender of certain companions and friends. The reappointment of one's time must be arranged in the scheme of life. One must be willing to surrender certain habits of life inconsistent with Christian principles.

Morning worship 11—Sermon by the pastor.

Jesus was aggressive in seeking disciples. He went to them personally and invited them into the Kingdom of God. He wanted them to be His guests and to investigate honestly and carefully the cause of the Gospel that He came to preach and teach. Some were willing to accept this invitation and were blessed by so doing. Any person who will be a guest of Jesus, and sit at His feet will reap untold blessings.

Missions are a world-wide program. We cannot divorce missions from Christianity. They are inseparably interwoven. This is because Christ's program is fundamentally a missionary program. During His earthly ministry, He taught missions, preached missions, practiced missions. His last act before His ascension was to bequest His missionary program to His followers in these words, "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and unto the uttermost part of the earth". Here again the Highest Authority commands a world-wide missionary program.

Luther league 6:30—Devotional topic: "The Holiness of Jesus".

Announcements

Christian Science Society Services

"Life" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WHK, Cleveland, the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 9:30 a. m., while on Wednesday the mid-week service will be held at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.... In Him was life; and the life was the light of men" (John 1: 14).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many.... But the path of the just as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day (Proverbs 4: 10, 18).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Except for the error of measuring and limiting all that is good and beautiful, man would enjoy more than three score years and ten and still maintain his vigor, freshness, and promise. Man, governed by immortal Mind, is always beautiful and grand. Each succeeding year unfolds wisdom, beauty, and holiness" (p. 246).

Elder In Charge Of St. John Rites

Old Truths In A New World

"The world is different in many respects from that in which our fathers lived. Science and invention have transformed life's methods and standards. There has been an accumulation and dissemination of much knowledge. But is it a happier world than that in which our fathers lived? Has it settled our elemental problems? Has it answered the anxious questions of our soul? It has attacked and destroyed old faiths and old ideas, but it has not replaced them. In the spiritual field it has torn down but not built up. The old anxieties regarding life and death and eternity still remain. The old consciousness of wrongdoing and of the justice of God still remains. We still are sinners. We still need a Savior. The old verities of God's Word are still applicable. The old rugged cross still stands. The old invitation of grace still resounds. We need just what our fathers needed, a living, guarding, redeeming Savior. You are invited to hear His saving mercy proclaimed at the divine worship services.

Today's Pattern

SMART FROCK
Pattern 4686

Every detail of this smart, new afternoon style, Pattern 4686, has been cleverly calculated to bring out the best points of your figure. See, for instance, what nice, height-adding lines are supplied by the yoke and front panel which are cut all in one piece. The slenderizing effect of these lines is emphasized by the V-neck, buttons and inverted pleat! Soft fullness below the yoke contributes flattery over the bust and if you want a little extra flattery near your face, make the collar in contrasting color. And choose silks, synthetics or very fine light weight wools for your fabric.

Suspend Home Chief

CELINA, Jan. 15.—Mercer county commissioners declined today to state a reason for the suspension yesterday of Aloys Beckstedt as superintendent of the county home. State examiners were checking the home's books when the action was taken.

Hunt For $20,000 Heir Ended With News of Suicide

HAMILTON, Jan. 15.—A long search for an heir to a $20,000 estate in Sweden was at an end here today, with G. Oldenburg of Chicago, royal Swedish consul, forwarding information to executors that the object of the search had committed suicide in poverty.

He had been seeking Gustave Adolphus Wickstrom, who left Sweden in 1919. Only small obscure clues had been found from time to time. Oldenburg said, after the death of Wickstrom's father in 1924.

Oldenburg found that Wickstrom tried to join the United States army in Superior, Wis. Then there was a report of a Gus A. Wickstrom who served in the Canadian army until 1920, and a relative remembered receiving a letter postmarked Hamilton, June 10, 1931.

Oldenburg came here yesterday and asked police to help him. Records showed that a Gus Wickstrom had lived here at the time of the letter. Later, police said, he lived in a shanty on the city dump, existing on charity. Information in the city relief records ended last March.

After hours of searching through police and other records, the consul was ready to leave in hopes of turning up other clues elsewhere. Then Desk Sergeant Gordon Korb, just coming on duty, heard him discussing the case with other officers. Korb recalled a telephone query from a Toledo undertaker Nov. 10, 1937, asking if Korb knew anything about a man named Gus Wickstrom, found in a boxcar there with his throat cut. Korb said the undertaker called it an obvious suicide case.

Oldenburg said the money left by the elder Wickstrom, now increased by investment, would be divided among the nearest heirs.

Meetings Listed By School Chief

LISBON, Jan. 15.—Two school meetings have been scheduled for next week by County Superintendent W. E. Roberts.

Beaver Rural and Unity township boards and teachers will convene at Rogers Jan. 20. On Jan. 19 a similar meeting has been planned for Western Rural, East Rochester and Kensington school districts at the Hanoverton Presbyterian church. Important announcements will be made at the meetings, Roberts said.

Cardozo Rallies

Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo

Condition of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the U. S. supreme court was reported slightly improved at his home in Washington. The justice, who is 67, has been seriously ill from a heart ailment.

"GIVE HER WINGS" by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER XVII
Once when Julie had gone upstairs to powder her nose, she said to the girl in the mirror, "If I had a home like this, no one would ever get me into an airplane! I'd stay here and burrow right down in that nice green grass and get my view of the sky from there. Someday I'll have a place like this maybe."

She sighed. Dick would never have a place like the Cartrights. She had put Dick Jessup into a niche in her scheme where he didn't affect her present plans. Nevertheless, she counted him among her assets. Rita had forgotten—or deliberately chosen not to mention him again and Julie had let the explanations go. Nevertheless, when she met Rita's eyes, she felt as though she had cheapened herself in them. She had an uncomfortable feeling that Rita thought she was man-hunting for richer game.

Vance said, "Jean, who's this Allerdye girl? She's awful easy to look at."

"Friend of Rita's. They both belong to a flying class or something. She comes from a town a few miles away, father's a prep school prof. She's not only easy to look at, she's a pleasure even to my jaundiced eye.... Oh, Lord, there's mother with that new toy of hers! That moving picture camera! No one's future is safe with her around." She watched for a few minutes. "I think the Lord, she's going to take another reel of Iyplant. We're safe. How about matching pennies to while away the day?"

"Miss Allerdye?" Julie turned her head towards Mrs. Cartright.

"We need you! I'm going to take some movies of Iyplant nosing her new blue ribbon. Tom Halbright says a picture of a horse without a pretty girl isn't interesting."

"And I say that you're the prettiest girl here! Come along!" Halbright added. Julie's expression was exactly what was called for: she smiled appreciatively as though she knew that it wasn't true. A groom led Iyplant out of his stall. Mrs. Cartright said he was "sixteen hands high." He looked sixteen stories high to Julie who had no eagerness to edge up to the baleful-eyed hunter. But there wasn't the slightest hesitation in her walk, not the least sign that she expected to be picked up in the horse's teeth and chewed to bits. She walked up to him with that swinging stride of hers, her short skirts blowing in the breeze that veined the lines of her figure. With more obvious than sincere confidence she rubbed his nose, held out her shaking hand with a jump of sugar in it. The camera ground for a few minutes, and then a groom led Iyplant away.

Jerry Kincaid stood on the edge of the group watching the movie-making. He agreed with Tom Halbright that anyone would be glad to look at a picture of the lithe-limbed Julie whether or not his interest was in horses.

Halbright said, "Mary, how about a little visual recording of my new plane?... and will you, Miss Allerdye, do the noble thing by me and pose getting into it?" Julie laughed. "Oh, Mr. Halbright, I'll be glad to, but I think you ought to have someone else in the picture. Instead of me. I'm not what you call a... isn't it called a camera hog?"

"Listen lady, not you; You couldn't dodge a cameraman. You've got a face a cameraman can't keep away from! You could pose demonstrating cast-iron...."

"Come on, Tom, while the light's good," Mary Cartright said. The little group trailed after her across the stable yard, through the garden, skirting the swimming pool and onto the landing field. Julie began to enjoy her role as a moving picture actress. Well, maybe not an actress in the obvious sense of the word but actress of hers toward the plane, eagerness in every line of her as she fastened a helmet over her tawny hair. See how gracefully she gets a foothold on the strut, turns toward the camera with a quick, dazzling smile. Take note of the grace with which she lowers herself into the cockpit, the gallantry of her farewell salute as she raises her arm.

Jerry Kincaid snapped his thumb and forefinger together. "Jovel!" he said under his breath.

He knew exactly what his new plane could do. He knew what the outcome of his next sensational flight scheduled a week from that day would be. He had calculated the net results, the publicity value to the plane manufacturers which, in turn, would be translated in terms of money for him. Because it would be another record-breaker, it would be grist for news pictures, newsreel attention; but even a famous flyer couldn't get the newspaper space accorded to the face of a pretty girl. Unless—

He wanted to talk to Julie then. He waited until he found her alone sitting on the edge of the swimming pool. Then he said:

"Are you as game as you are lovely?"

Julie said, "Please tell me what the right answer would be."

"I think you are," he said disregarding her cross-play.

"And if I am—"

"Julie how would you like to make that cross-country flight with me next Saturday?"

Julie's heart dove into her stomach from habit. She wasn't really afraid to fly with anyone like Jerry Kincaid. After a minute, she tried to straighten out all the things that came rushing at her from the corners of her mind. The one thing that was strongest was her thought that she'd make a lot of money, share in the prize of something. She didn't ask him about it at once; it would have been too obvious.

She said, "I don't know. Can you tell me a good reason why I might?"

"Yes and no.... You're taking up flying in a serious way, I assume." Julie had nothing to say to that. "You'll have an experience that will be very valuable to you." That word valuable made more sense to her than all this talk about experience and serious flying.

"How?" she inquired softly.

"You'll come along as my assistant"—he saw that she was shaking her head. "I know, youngsters, you haven't had much experience but you really won't have any work to do. Just come along for the ride. It'll be fun to streak through the skies! It'll be the greatest you ever had!" Julie had no doubt about it. But there were thrills and thrills and she'd prefer to choose her own.

She wondered how she could get around to the subject of the prize. That would have something to do with her decision.

"Would it be proper," she asked, "for me to go with you unchaperoned?"

He roared with laughter and Julie pretended that she had meant it as a joke.

"Tell me more about the flight. Is it a race?"

"No, I'm on my own. Going to try to break in a new gadget and, incidentally, my own record."

"Then I'd be excess baggage?"

"But I won't get paid for it?"

"Not from Kincaid."

"Then I don't see much point to it."

"Listen, sugar, every time that plane makes a stop—and there'll be plenty on the way back—there'll be an army of reporters and guys waiting for it. Kincaid will push you out of the plane first. Does that mean anything to you?"

"No. Why shouldn't I be paid for it?"

"I'll try and explain: why did you take flying lessons? Stow it, sister. I know! Not because you just adore flying? But because you wanted to get a Big Chance. Well, this is it. It's come up and hit you in the face and you didn't even recognize it! Do it, sit tight and wait and see what it turns up for you. Well.... Will you?"

Julie said, "Pete, I've still got half my lessons coming to me. How about some of the money? I can't fly across the country without any money in my pocket?"

Pilot, Type of Plane and Map of Crash That Killed 10

Crashing in flames atop the Continental Divide, near Bozeman, Mont., a new-type Lockheed Zephyr passenger plane was demolished and ten persons were killed, including Pilot Nick B. Mamer, of Spokane, Wash. The type of airliner, a twin-motored Lockheed Zephyr, is pictured, with a map locating the scene of the crash and the pilot of the plane.

Children Didn't Elope After All

Missing for several days, Lowell Mast, 14, and Edwina Keyser, 13, of Bremen, Ind., were thought to have eloped. But the two turned up unmarried in Miami, Fla., in the Keyser family car. It seems the whole thing started when Edwina tried to back her father's new car out of the garage and knocked both doors off the garage. She was scared, so she found her school sweetheart, Lowell, and with $6.50 between them, they headed south. When their funds ran out they sold, among other things, the car radio, the spare tire, the seat covers and Edwina's traveling bag.

Victims of Plunge of Samoan Clipper Into Pacific

Three of the seven members of the crew of the ill-fated Samoan Clipper which plunged flaming into the Pacific ocean near Pugo Pago, American Samoa, en route to Auckland, New Zealand, are pictured above. They are Cecil Sellers, 44, first officer; J. W. Stickrod, 23, engineer officer, and Paul S. Brunk, 30, junior flight officer. Wreckage of the 21-ton flying boat has been identified.

At Mine Where Blast Killed 10

Following an explosion, rescue workers recovered the bodies of 10 men from the Harwich mine near Pittsburgh. A whole section of the mine was wrecked by the blast which blew out more than 50 air passage walls, knocking down men who were working 500 feet away. The mine is pictured, with a rescue crew placing the body of one of the victims in an ambulance. Gas was given as the cause of the blast. At the same mine 182 men were killed in an explosion in 1904.

I Make Him Happy!

Vera Shuvalova, wife No. 3 of Stan Laurel, movie comedian, asserts she will "take steps" against the comedian's second wife if she tries to declare their recent marriage invalid. "I'm not going to allow her to make Stan unhappy just when I've made him the happiest man in the world," says Mrs. Laurel No. 3. The Russian dancer eloped to Yuma, Ariz., with Stan during the New Year's holiday. Meanwhile, Mrs. Laurel No. 2 was said to be preparing to file an affidavit attacking the validity of Laurel's divorce decree.

Industrial Leaders Confer With President

Reporting a "better understanding" between business and government, five of the leading industrialists of the United States are pictured after conferring with President Roosevelt at the White House. Left to right, Colby Chester, president of General Foods corporation and chairman of the National Manufacturers' association; Ernest T. Weir, president of the National Steel corporation; Lewis Brown, president of Johns-Manville corporation; Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors corporation, and M. H. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad. The five reported closer cooperation in attempts to check the recession as a result of the conference.

Ex-Giant Is Accused

Charged with the murder of pretty Helen Grier, 23-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, Vernon Spencer, former outfielder of the New York Giants, faces trial at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. The girl was found shot to death in a lonely hunting cabin north of Sault Ste. Marie. Spencer, 44, has made his home at Wixom, Mich., is married and has two children. He claims he found Miss Grier's body on the floor of the cabin when he returned from a moose hunt.

His Eyes Are on Albany

Postmaster General Farley is shown with his arm around the shoulder of Robert H. Jackson, Assistant United States Attorney General, at a luncheon of Democratic bigwigs in New York City. Jackson announced he would accept the nomination for the governorship of New York in the next election.

Actress Loses Court Fight

The Barbara Stanwyck-Frank Fay court battle in Los Angeles over whether or not Fay is to be permitted to visit their adopted child, Dion, 6, ends in victory for Fay, former mate of the actress. Fay was granted permission by the court to visit the child at certain times. The name of Robert Taylor, screen actor and frequent companion of Miss Stanwyck, came into the case often to the apparent annoyance of the actress.

Their Dad Missing Navy Flyer

Their father, Loren Peace, aviation machinist's mate was one of the seven men on a huge navy patrol bombing plane believed to have gone down far out in the Pacific. The children, pictured at their home in San Diego, Cal., are Marion, 2, and Bobby, 4. Search was reported virtually abandoned.

QUAKERS EDGE ALLIANCE, 30-28, IN ROUGH GAME

Alliance Comes From Rear To Tie Count In 2nd Half; Olexa's Shot Wins Battle

Aviators Use Defense of Roughness To Halt Quakers' Usually Smooth-Working Offense; Five Players Ousted From Game On Fouls

Call out the volunteers! This fire department basketball is getting way out of control.

There's nothing like a little fast action to add life to Dr. Naismith's game, but then there's no satisfaction in turning an otherwise respectable sport into a three-alarm fire.

Such was the case up at Alliance last night when Coach Herb Brown's Salem High school Quakers nosed out Alliance High's Aviators, 30 to 28, in a contest that was absolutely lacking in good basketball, but had more than its share of fast and rough play.

The Quakers more than deserved to win the contest, but it was only through the grace of good luck and their ability to stand up under terrific punishment that they managed to come out on top.

Coach Brown's lads have never been "angels" when it comes to rough play, but they most certainly played second fiddle in this department last night.

Disorganized by the loss of two regulars, Walter Schwartzhoff and Dave Koch, both of whom quit the squad Thursday, the Aviators relied on a defense of crowding, overguarding, pushing and other rough tactics to throw a wrench into the usually smooth-working Salem offense.

Referee Les Rang of Akron and C. W. Rupp of Cuyahoga Falls did the best they could in calling fouls, but, despite this, a good-sized portion of the rules violations went uncalled.

The Aviators were entirely lacking in a polished offense or defense. They used a fast-breaking offense, but more to their disadvantage than favor because not once did their offensive style result in a score. The defense rather than offense was responsible for most of the Aviators' points. Their rough play in this department enabled them to steal the ball numerous times in their own territory. They followed up their defensive breaks with field goals on 11 occasions.

The Quakers had no way of offsetting Alliance's rough play, except by following the same style. Brown's charges were handicapped in their pass-work and shooting by the cramped conditions of the Alliance court with its "dead" corners and low-hanging ceiling.

As a result of the heated action, three Alliance and two Salem players were ousted from the game for committing too many fouls. The Aviators lost the services of Ed Hill, Hume, Steve Monar and Bill McPhail in the final frame, while Salem lost Jim Dickey and Gilbert Everhart.

Olexa was the big gun in the Quakers' victory, hooping the winning basket in the last two minutes of play when the score was deadlocked at 28-28.

Olexa's winning shot was made from under the basket after he had broken through his opposing guard and received a long pass from a teammate. Alliance did not receive another shot at the basket before the game ended, although several seconds after the final horn, which could scarcely be heard above the roaring crowd, an Alliance player, who was unaware of the fourth quarter's finish, made a field goal.

In addition to the shot which won the game, Olexa made five other field goals and five fouls for a total of 17 points, the most that has been credited in one game to a Quaker player this season.

The third and fourth quarters produced the closest action of the game after the Quakers had outscored Alliance in the first two periods to gain a seven-point edge, 18 to 11, at halftime.

Alliance rallied in the third quarter to tie the score at 22, then played an even game with the Quakers until the closing minutes of the fourth frame.

Ed Mainwaring, who had three fouls called on him in the first half, yet played the second half without committing a foul, led the Alliance rally by making three field goals and a foul in the second half. Mainwaring made one field goal in the first half.

During their halftime lead, the Quakers scored 13 points to Alliance's eight in the first quarter and five points to Alliance's three in the second period.

Because of crowded conditions under the basket, few of the field goals were made from close range. Long shots from mid-court accounted for four baskets for the Quakers and three for the Aviators.

Neither team performed exceptionally well in foul shooting, which, so far this season, has been one of the Quakers' outstanding weaknesses. Alliance converted six out of 11 free throws, while the Quakers made 10 out of 20 charity tosses.

Alliance's undefeated record in the preliminary game by spanking the Salem reserves, 27 to 22. Jim Klen led the team scoring with seven points, while Grimes was high scorer for Alliance with nine markers.

With Alliance marked up as their fourth victim of the 1937-38 campaign, the Quakers will go after their fifth win against Youngstown Rayen at the Salem High school gym tonight.

The varsity contest will start at 9 o'clock and will be preceded by a reserve game, starting at 7:30. H. C. Wagner of Warren will referee.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Don't ask why, but Tony Galento (the man who never trains) is getting a bigger play in the New York sheets than any other fighter in the country. Brooklyn papers come right out in meeting and say if Larry MacPhail takes that job as general manager of the Dodgers he should get a medal for the year's outstanding piece of heroism. Clarence Rowland, also on the Dodge list, but MacPhail has the rail position.

Tommy Farr is 3 to 1 to lick Jimmy Braddock next Friday night. Penn old grads are divided on the selection of George Munger as head coach. The man on the street here believes the Cardinals were a bit harsh with Dizzy Dean. Our guess is Ditz will settle for around $18,000. Ed Franco, the Fordham line star, has signed a three-year contract to coach St. Michael's High at Jersey City. Judge Landis will rate a medal of some sort if he gets to first base in his reported campaign to stop big leaguers from taking fliers on the ponies.

Jack Carey, who died in Rochester yesterday, was recognized the country over as one of the smartest of the light matchmakers. The latest Cub offer for Van Mungo is $75,000 plus Rip Collins, Joe Marty, Lonnie Frey and Clyde Shoun. Hitch is, the Dodgers want Augie Galan instead of Frey and Clay Bryant instead of Shoun. Result: no dice—yet. Damon Runyon, who is sort of unofficial mayor of Miami Beach, is trying to close for a Freddie Steele-Solly Krieger match next month. Ford C. Frick, National league president, says the average salary for a big leaguer is $7,500 per year. War Admiral has started serious training for the $50,000 Widener cup race, March 5.

Horton Smith has lost his putting touch and Lawson Little's game is off. His fraternity brothers are tossing a big spread for Marshall Goldberg in Pittsburgh tomorrow night. Prof. Paul (AP) Nickelsen will be one of the orators. New York baseball writers will announce their "player of the year" Monday morning. High mass will be said here Wednesday morning for Eddie Neil.

BARTH SEEKING SHOT AT TITLE

Freddy Steele Offered $15,000 To Battle Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—A $15,000 purse awaits Middleweight Champion Freddy Steele if he will engage Cleveland's Carmen Barth in a title bout at the Arena here, says Eddie Mead, Barth's manager.

Mead, who also shapes the destiny—so far as is possible—of hurricane Henry Armstrong, featherweight champion, is anxious to arrange for the Steele-Barth battle for Feb. 21. Barth is a former Olympic middleweight champion. It probably will be accomplished, said Mead, by meeting a $20,000 demand from Eddie Miller, Steele's man of business, with a counter offer of $20,000.

Mead, promoter Mike Malloy of Chicago and Matchmaker Jack Kearns of Detroit conferred at length here yesterday.

Negotiations for a featherweight title match between Armstrong and K. O. Morgan at Detroit on Feb. 11 were "virtually completed," Kearns said. Malloy sought to arrange a bout at Chicago later next month between the dynamic Armstrong and "the best of several local opponents." Malloy mentioned Chicago's best as Al Nettlow, Leo Rodak, George Dixon and Varias Millings. "It looks like the middleweight title match here will go through," said Mead, "but if the Steele outfit can't see our figures, a big show will go on anyway and Henry Armstrong will likely be on the main bout."

Liverpool Wins Seventh In Row

EAST LIVERPOOL, Jan. 15.—Gaining their seventh straight victory, East Liverpool High school cagers defeated Youngstown Chaney, 22 to 19, in a listless game here last night.

McGraw paced the Potters in scoring with 10 points made on four field goals and two fouls. Frank Terlecki, Chaney's ace scorer, was held to three points.

MT. UNION WINS 5TH LOOP GAME

Crushes O. Northern, 61 To 31, In Ohio Conference Fray

Mount Union's basketballers tucked away their fifth Ohio conference victory in six starts last night, crushing the cellar-dwelling Ohio Northern Polar Bears, 61 to 31.

The purple's whirlwind offense piled up a 27 to 7 half-time lead. Harold Nichols paced the victors with 12 markers, pressed by his teammate, Jack Mills, with 11 points.

Marietta captured the hottest game on the Friday schedule by snatching a 40 to 38 victory from Otterbein in an overtime contest. Otterbein was consistently ahead during the tilt, holding a 16 to 14 advantage at half-time. They were out front, 35 to 33, in the final seconds of play when Captain MacGee fouled the game. While MacGee muffed the gift shots, Center Nesha followed through with a field goal to tie the score. Burger, a guard, sank the deciding goal for Marietta in the extra period.

At Cincinnati, Western Reserve of Cleveland crushed the University of Cincinnati Bearcats, 35 to 18. A team composed entirely of Bearcat reserves opened the fracas. Reserve took a substantial lead and never was overtaken. Reserve led at the intermission, 19 to 10. Frank Kelker of Reserve topped all scorers with 16 points.

Findley drubbed Hiram in a non-conference clash, 57 to 33. Hiram was in the fore in the opening minutes. Findlay led at the half, 27 to 14.

Defiance stood off a determined Cedarville rally to take a narrow 39 to 38 win in a non-conference tilt. Cedarville trailed, 25 to 17, at half-time but grabbed a 35-33 lead late in the second period. Paul Hogan, center, caged 14 Defiance points.

Oberlin shelved Hobart College of Geneva, Ky., 37 to 30. Oberlin was on the cheerful side of a 20 to 12 half-time count.

In out-of-state battles, Xavier university of Cincinnati lost a nip-and-tuck game to Bradley Tech at Peoria, Ill., 35 to 34, while Thiel college walloped Penn of Cleveland, 33 to 21, at Greenville, Pa.

Grimes Drops Farm Chores To Talk About Van Mungo

Burleigh Asserts Fireball Ace Is Better Pitcher Than Dizzy Dean; Says He'd Like To Keep Him

NEW HAVEN, Mo., Jan. 15.—One of the best known farmers in these parts stalked out of the hogpen today to talk a little baseball.

And during the course of the conversation, Farmer Burleigh Grimes led with his chin and declared: "In my opinion, Van Lingle Mungo is a better pitcher than Dizzy Dean."

Even so, Grimes asserted a trade involving Mungo "still could be made" if cash were included. But otherwise the big right-hander will be in Brooklyn this year.

"We won't trade him at what's been offered so far. I've heard we were offered three players and $75,000. I know about the three ball players—and I wouldn't have them—but I wasn't there when they talked cash, too."

"Everybody seems to think I want to get rid of Van. I don't. I think he's a great pitcher, and he's got good years ahead of him. Not only that, but he's a good hitter and knows how to field."

"If we don't trade Van, he'll pitch for us, all right, and he'll be the 44-year-old pilot chewed

Cubs Willing To Pay $75,000 for Fiery Van Lingle Mungo; Brooklyn Satisfied With Cash Amount, But Wants Better Player Than Offered

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—That Cubs-Dodgers deal for Van Mungo is on the fire again.

While no actual progress has been made, it is known the Brooklyn Moguls are talking among themselves over a new Chicago offer of $75,000 cash and four players in exchange for the temperamental fireball flinger.

The offer, as it now stands, is unsatisfactory to the Dodgers because of the Cub playing material offered. However, should Chicago change its mind and throw in players in whom the Brooklyn are interested, there would be better than an even chance of Mungo receiving his mail at Wrigley field next season.

The Brooklyn bosses told Clarence Rowland all that when he was here a few days ago to make the offer, in person, as a representative of Cub Owner P. K. Wrigley.

"We want better players, and we don't care if the cash amount is less," was the way one Brooklyn source put the club's demands, in explaining it to the Associated Press. "If we give up Mungo, we're going to be sure we get, in return, the players we believe he's worth."

After spending nearly a week here trying to interest the Brooklyn management in the Cub offer, Rowland carried that Dodge message back to Chicago. The offer he brought to Ebbsfield field was for First Baseman Ripper Collins, Outfielder Joe Marty, Infielder Lonnie Frey and Pitcher Clyde Shoun to come to Brooklyn, along with the cash.

Collins and Marty would meet with the Dodgers' approval. They figure that since they're perfectly satisfied with songbird Buddy Hasset on first base, they could convert Collins to an outfielder.

But instead of Frey and Shoun, Brooklyn would want a couple of players like Outfielder Augie Galan and Pitcher Clay Bryant. Frey, particularly, couldn't buy a spot on the Brooklyn roster. He was a Dodger—and a typical one—before he was traded to Chicago after the 1936 season. While in Brooklyn, he led the National league in fielding errors for two years.

Columbians Whip Youngstown Five

Taking a seven-point lead in the first quarter, the Columbians' Class C basketball team coasted to a 21 to 8 victory over the South Aces of Youngstown at the Memorial building last night.

The Columbians held a 12 to 8 edge at halftime and scored nine points in the last two periods while keeping the Aces blank. Jim Rogers was the leading scorer for the Columbians, tallying seven points on three field goals and one foul.

BETTER COUNTY CROPS REPORTED

terly or monthly installments. Most of the repayments in this county are scheduled on an annual basis. Records show that 10 borrowers actually have made advance payments since July 1. Fifty-two borrowers have paid their loans in full since the program started in Columbiana county. While Myers attributed increased repayments to better crops, he said that the general success of the program was largely due to careful planning by farm families prior to receipt of loans.

Work Out Own Plan

Assisted by the local rural rehabilitation supervisor, Miss Anne M. Villella, and Miss Gladie E. Bauman, rural rehabilitation home supervisor, each family worked out a farm and home plan based on the circumstances involved and aimed at helping it realize the most from its loan. As a consequence, many clients actually gained ground last year in spite of poor crops. Myers explained that while the drought may have forced them to obtain supplemental loans to carry them through the winter, they were able to lay the ground work for eventual reestablishment as self-sufficient farm families.

porters that he sought ultimately to wipe out holding companies in all fields of business and industry. Asked whether he would eliminate even first-degree holding companies, the chief executive responded with the query—Why have any at all?

(As used in the press conference, the term "first degree holding companies" presumably meant those which hold securities only in operating companies.)

Elimination of some utility holding companies already is provided for in existing statutes. Besides discussing these, the President referred specifically to the control of local banks by companies hundreds of miles away.

Hits Small Banker

This remote control is gradually eliminating the small banker, Mr. Roosevelt said. He asserted this was undesirable, and that ample local funds, deposit insurance and federal supervision make it possible for community banks to support themselves.

Along with astonishment, the reaction of many business men included the view that the statement had added to uncertainty over future government-business relations. Some observers said it might reflect unfavorably on the better feeling engendered by the conferences the president has been holding with industrial, financial and labor leaders in cooperation with the government in combating the recession.

Fasting Minister Refuses To Yield

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 15.—Hope was abandoned today of persuading The Very Rev. Israel Harding Noe to give up his quest to establish himself as living proof of immortality through fasting and prayer after his eldest brother failed to swerve him from his decision. "I feel there is nothing I can do," said Rev. Thomas Noe, head of the Diocesan Church Home of York, S. C., last night before boarding a train for home after a day's visit with the now emaciated dean. "I believe my brother is thoroughly sincere and honest in seeking to achieve a spiritual plane of life denuded of life's material bene-

Theater Attractions

Charles Boyer and Claudette Colbert in a scene from their film, "Tovarich", at the State Sunday through Tuesday

The much publicized "Tovarich", co-starring Charles Boyer and Claudette Colbert, comes to the State theater Sunday to show through Monday and Tuesday. Anita Louise, Basil Rathbone, Melville Cooper and Isabelle Jeans have important roles in the story of an exiled Russian prince and grand duchess in Paris, who, with a fortune in the bank, hire out as maid and butler to a pair of social-ambitious Americans.

Money Attracts an Enemy

The money in the bank, which the couple is holding in trust for the car, attracts their enemy, Rathbone. Peniless, trying to keep Rathbone from getting hold of the money, trying to keep the male members of the American household from falling in love with the duchess and the feminine ones with Boyer, the couple have their hands full.

The picture is considered one of the best new comedies. It is Boyer's first role since his dramatic success as Napoleon in "Conquest" and Miss Colbert's first since "I Met Him in Paris".

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town", hit comedy of last year, starring Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur, will be seen on a return bill at the State Wednesday only.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday the State will offer "You're a Sweetheart", featuring Alice Faye, George Murphy, Ken Murray and stooge, Oswald, Charles Winninger, Andy Devine, William Gargan, Frances Hunt, Frank Jenks and Casper Seardon.

"Tarzan" Is Billed

A new Tarzan adventure, "Tarzan's Revenge", with the world famous athlete, Glenn Morris, as the jungle hero, and Eleanor Holm as his mate, is the Grand theater attraction for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday and Thursday two pictures will be seen at the Grand. The first, "Missing Witnesses", features John Litel, Dick Purcell, Jean Dale, Sheila Bromley, William Haade and Raymond Hatton.

The second film is "Paid to Dance" with Jacqueline Wells, Don Terry, Rita Hayworth, Arthur Loft and Paul Fix.

A new singing western player, Bob Baker, is featured in "Courage of the West", which will show Friday and Saturday at the Grand. Concluding bills tonight are: "Nothing Sacred", the Carole Lombard-Fredric March comedy, at the State; and "Hollywood Roundup", starring Buck Jones, at the Grand.
